For Immediate Release:

Charles Adams Studio Project announces the construction of four new Work Studios.

Lubbock, TX – Charles Adams Studio Project is excited to announce the construction of four new Work Studios. These studios are possible due to generous gifts from The CH Foundation, the Helen Jones Foundation, the Welborn-Payne Endowment, Western Bank, American National Bank, and members of the Lubbock community.

In May 2016, CASP began the development of 20 Work Studios to further its mission of creating a working artist’s community. CASP still has twelve more Work Studios to construct, and invites any member of the community who would like to partner with its goal to contact them or make a donation at: <https://casp-arts.org/product/donation/>.

“When you create an artist community, artists collaborate with each other and they interact with the public. CASP is working towards making Lubbock not only the Hub City, but an Arts Hub as well,” says Director Chad Plunket.

The Work Studios provide artists an affordable space to create in with quality lighting, heat and air, and allows access to the other facilities on CASP’s campus. Teachers, professionals, and community members create art in these studios, which is viewable on First Friday Art Trails. This provides an opportunity for the artists to build their career and further themselves professionally.

Charles Adams Studio Project (CASP) is 501(c)(3) organization with the mission to serve as a cornerstone in the Lubbock Arts District through developing and sustaining a working artists’ community that actively engages the public with the arts.
